Hail to old I.U.!

—Joe T. Giles, Class of 1894

Indiana University East grew out of an extension established at Earlham College that was operated by Earlham and Indiana University. In 1967, the arrangement was expanded to include Purdue and Ball State universities, and the extension became the Eastern Indiana Center of Earlham College.

In 1969, reflecting the community’s response to this opportunity to take state university courses close to home, Richmond citizens formed an association known as Eastern Indiana Community College, Inc., to raise funds for the construction of a new campus. Following a successful campaign in which they raised over $1 million, members of the community college organization, with the consent of the four education institutions involved in the center, requested that Indiana University establish a regional campus in Richmond to assume responsibility for the operation.

The Indiana General Assembly approved this plan, and on July 1, 1971, the Eastern Indiana Center of Earlham College became Indiana University East, the sixth campus in the Indiana University regional system. On October 3, 1972, ground was broken for a new campus site north of Richmond. The first building, an all-purpose academic facility named Whitewater Hall, was completed in late 1974 and dedicated February 23, 1975. Several administrative offices are housed in Whitewater Hall, as is the School of Natural Science and Mathematics.

Ground was broken for a new library and classroom building on August 8, 1990. It was dedicated as Brice E. Hayes Hall on June 12, 1992. Hayes Hall houses the School of Nursing and Health Sciences and the School of Business and Economics.

The third classroom building on the IU East campus was completed in May 1995. The building, which was dedicated as Middlefork Hall on June 12, 1996, houses the fine arts program and classrooms and laboratories for the School of Education, the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, and the School of Social Work. In 2009, the building was renamed Tom Raper Hall in recognition of the largest gift in IU East’s history.

The fourth building, dedicated as Springwood Hall in November 1999, houses the Office of the Chancellor and the Office of External Affairs, as well as the Graf Recreation Center, Athletics and Campus Life offices, and general and specialty classrooms. Additionally, the IU East Henry County Danielson Learning Center was dedicated in May 1999 to serve the citizens of Henry County. IU East also offers degree programs at the Ivy Tech Community College Lawrenceburg campus.

Groundbreaking for the fifth building, the Student Events and Activities Center, took place on November 11, 2014. The center’s purpose is to promote student success through a comprehensive offering of programming in health and wellness, physical education, athletics, student activities, and special events. This building was dedicated in August 2016 and was in use for the 2016 fall semester.

Indiana University East is both a traditional campus that excels in innovative learning options and a virtual campus with select online degree completion programs.

In fall 2007 Indiana University East Athletics joined the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), and became the Red Wolves in 2008. Indiana University East student-athletes participate in seven men’s and eight women’s varsity sports, the most of any of Indiana University’s regional campuses.

Since awarding its first bachelor’s degrees in 1977, Indiana University East has expanded its academic portfolio to include bachelor’s degrees in 50 areas of study and six different master’s degree programs. As the fastest-growing university campus in Indiana, IU East leads the region as the premier public four-year and master’s education institution in eastern Indiana and western Ohio.
